THE CITIZENS MEETING.

Monday Night to Arrange for the Kentucky River Convention.

The citizens are showing a commendable interest in the Kentucky River Convention which has been called to meet here next Wednesday. Monday night, despite the inclement weather, there was a good attendance of the citizens at the court house to make the necessary preliminary arrangements for the convention, and the enthusiasm displayed was an indication of the earnestness with which this important matter has been seized upon.

Mr. Charles Exum called the meeting to order and Judge Lysander Hord, who has for years devoted himself to the interests of this river, was made chairman and Mr. M. P. Gray the secretary. Before entering upon the work in hand, Judge Hord addressed the meeting on the purposes for which it had been called and the object and scope of the convention fixed for next Wednesday. He said that if the people along this river and in this city could only be made to realize the great wealth of coal, iron, clays, timbers and building stones that were locked up awaiting the opening of the river by the improvement of the navigation, they would not hesitate to make the journey to Washington City in wagons, on horseback or foot, to urge the passage of a sufficient appropriation for the speedy completion of the work undertaken by the General Government, even as the California pioneers in 1849, in the midst of dangers, made their way across the trackless west in search of gold. He spoke of the necessity to show Congress that the people of this State, who since 1850, when the river was ceded to the General Government, had paid into the United States Treasury more than $100,000,000, were in earnest now in asking for a large appropriation to complete the locking and damming of a river which will return to the people a hundred fold benefits for the amount required to accomplish the work. The money that Kentucky has paid into the Treasury, he said, was used in building harbors and improving rivers in States which contain neither coal nor iron, and he thought, as it has been stated, that the Pennsylvania coal mines are becoming exhausted and more difficult to operate and the necessity is making itself felt, especially in this part of the Ohio valley, for a coal region to take the place of the Pennsylvania mines, that by proper effort on the part of the people interested, Congress could be brought to a realization of the importance of the Kentucky river as an outlet for a coal field of greater extent than Pennsylvania. He advocated the idea of a convention of the people and believed that such an expression of their will would be given the consideration due it by their representatives in Congress. A motion was then made that the following named gentlemen be made the committee on reception for the delegates who are to assemble here on the 18th inst:

Pat McDonald, J. W. Pruett, Wm. McCloy, M. P. Gray, Jno. E. Miles, W. H. Newhall, Jr., Ed. M. Drane, Judge B. G. Williams, Judge L. Hord, R. C. Steele, A. H. Waggoner, Jerome Weitzel, C. F. Dr. Stockdale.

The good success of Dr. Stockdale has had with his numerous patients in this vicinity is the result of his thorough education and knowledge of the diseases he makes his specialty. He can not cure all cases nor does he claim to. His careful mode of examination and familiarity with the slightest changes in the different organs enable him to tell at once whether or not a cure can be effected. His ideas are new and his methods the latest. He is not an old fogey, nor does he use methods that were in use years ago and which have been tried and proven unsuccessful. The doctor's next visit to Frankfort will be Thursday, January 19th, at his office Capital Hotel.

DROWNED WHILE SKATING.

The Ice on Benson Broke and Job Smith, jr., Disappeared into the Water.

Saturday morning at eleven o'clock as Mr. Job Smith was skating on Benson creek, the ice broke with him near the point where the creek empties into the river. No one saw him at the time, but two men in a skiff heard his cry as he plunged beneath the ice and made every endeavor by projecting poles at the place he disappeared to rescue him but failed to accomplish their purpose. A number of people afterwards assisted in the search for the body, which was found within half an hour, about ten feet from where the accident occurred. At the residence of Mr. Job Smith, sr., of Bellepoint, an uncle of the deceased, Coroner Dehoney held an inquest over the remains, which had been removed thither, and the jury returned a verdict of accidental drowning.

Sunday afternoon the funeral took place at the Antioch Church, and the body was interred in the church cemetery in the presence of a large congregation of sorrowing friends.

The deceased was thirty-two years of age, a son of Mr. John H. Smith, of the county, and a cousin of County Clerk N. B. Smith. He was in the employ of Mr. Henry Matten, the photographer, of this city, and was regarded a skilled man in the business. He was genial, reliable and industrious, and had a large circle of friends to mourn his untimely death.

How to Become Fleshly.

Dr. Miles Nerve not only cures all nervous diseases, headache, blues, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, fits and hysteria, but also builds up the body. "I am pleased to say that after years of intense suffering with nervous disease, headache and prostration, I tried Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve, and in two weeks gained eight pounds in weight. I could not lie down to sleep, but now sleep perfectly easy, and am still improving wonderfully. Cannot say enough for the Nerve. Mrs. L. B. MILLARD, Dunkirk, N. Y." "One customer used Nerve and gained fifteen pounds in flesh, says BROWN & MAYBURY, Cortland, N. Y." Trial bottles and elegant book free at J. W. Gayles.

Noble Grand Ahler.

After the installation of Mr. Jake Ahler in the honorable position of Noble Grand of Capital Lodge, No. 61, O. O. F., Monday night, he invited the members of the order to the number of thirty and more to a regular banquet at Sower & Ahler's, where to the music of Wolfe's orchestra, the guests sat down to table and enjoyed a mount of oysters, game and all the good things to eat that the house could provide. The entertainment was concluded with coffee, cigars and speeches.

The Louisville Post this week appears to have learned the reason a Frankfort young man didn't return home. It says:

Mr. E. Watson Taylor another of the Kentucky contingent that severed its connection with Roby's winter track, didn't return home with the others. Despite the blizzards from Dakota and the marrow-freezing winds that sweep in from lake and prairie, Chicago is said to be a very attractive place for the young handicapper. The pumps were set to work, coal thrown out of the boat and every effort bent to save the craft from going down in about twenty-two feet of water, in about twenty-two feet of water, and finally, after an hour or more, during which time a large number of people were looking on from the St. Clair street bridge in great expectancy at the operation, success crowned the labor of the men and the boat was saved from disaster in the ice-clogged waters.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF

The Cities of Louisville and Cincinnati now Wrestling over High Prices of Coal.

The Kentucky River Improvement Necessary to Relieve Them.

An Old Document on the Subject Most Interesting Now.

In the Courier-Journal of December 30, 1887, the following article appeared, which, just at this time, is of great interest, both to this city and the cities of Louisville and Cincinnati, which are in the midst of the annual troublesome question of how to reduce the price of coal:

The opening of the Kentucky river and of the great Eastern Kentucky coal field is such pressing importance in view of the coal famine, which is costing consumers immense sums of money, that the following communication of a committee of the Frankfort Board of Trade to the Louisville Board of Trade is interesting. It is probable that the Louisville organization will take immediate action in the matter. There are some valuable facts in the following communication, which is a copy of one that has been mailed to President Weisenger.

FRANKFORT, KY., December 29.—Harry Weisenger, Esq., President Board of Trade, Louisville. DEAR SIR: The undersigned, a committee appointed by resolution of the Frankfort Board of Trade, to correspond with the Board of Trade of your city for the purpose of securing your co-operation in urging Congress to complete the slack water navigation of the Kentucky river, beg leave to present for your consideration the following facts, showing the importance of the work in question.

The Kentucky river has its source at the base of the Cumberland Mountains, in Eastern Kentucky, in three tributaries which, after traversing the Eastern Kentucky coal fields for about one hundred miles, unite at Beattyville, in Lee county, the locality being known as the Three Forks, near the western edge of the coal field. Thence for a distance of 361 miles, it passes through thirteen of the richest bluegrass counties of the State, and empties into the Ohio at a point nearly equidistant between Cincinnati and Louisville. Although confined to the limits of a single State, the importance as a navigable stream has long attracted attention. More than 50 years ago its improvement, by slack-water navigation, was begun by the Louisville and Ohio canal, for nearly one hundred miles from its mouth it has been, through this means, made navigable for steamers and other commerce. Valuable, however, as this has been for local commerce, and for placing its products within easy reach of the markets of Louisville, Cincinnati and other cities, its chief value has not been realized from the failure as yet to complete the slack-water system to the Three Forks, and to secure to the population of this and other States the abundant supply of coal, iron and timber which exists at its headwaters.

In 1880, Kentucky having expended more than one million dollars in the construction of five locks and dams, following the precedent of West Virginia in the case of the Kanawha and Pennsylvania of the Monongahela, opened to the United States without profit, the improvements and the river, to the great disappointment of the Government might complete the system of slack-water navigation to the Three Forks and give free navigation through the entire year. Since that period Congress has from time to time made appropriations sufficient to repair the original locks and dams and to build an experimental dam out the entire year for the distance of about one hundred miles, to place under contract a sixth lock and dam, and to build an experimental dam at the Three Forks, which has after one year's trial, proven practically a failure. The object for which we seek your cooperation is to prevail upon Congress to change its policy of small annual appropriations, under which the completion of the system will be indefinitely postponed, and to make such provision as will enable the remaining distance of one hundred and sixty-one miles to be made navigable in the earliest practicable date, it being equally as feasible to place all the remaining locks and dams under contract at one time as to construct them piecemeal. We shall not weary you by a detailed exhibit of the great quantity and superior quality of coal which will thus become accessible to the inhabitants not only of the State contiguous to its waters and of the cities to which we especially appeal for aid in this endeavor, but also of the Mississippi valley south of the mouth. These details will be found officially set forth in the reports of the Kentucky geological survey, in which these coals have been thoroughly described and analyzed. Suffice it to say that they will bear us out in the assertion that, as a source of supply, this river offers a field as extensive as either the Kanawha or the Monongahela, and entitles it to equal consideration as the object of Congressional appropriation. For nearly a century it has been an area of bituminous coal equal in quantity and quality to the fields of Pennsylvania and West Virginia, but also of canal coals, unequaled in area in any part of the United States. The present time, when a coal famine presses the Ohio and Mississippi valleys in consequence of protracted low water, renders it peculiarly appropriate to set forth the advantages of securing fuel which has been rendered the recurrence of such an evil impossible. With the Kentucky river made navigable to these coals, the Three Forks, Louisville, Cincinnati and the region intermediate between those points and the source of supply would have facilities for securing fuel which would not affect. During the period in which you have been cut off from your supply from the Kanawha and Monongahela, although the drought in Kentucky has been similar to that affecting the Ohio, there has been no interruption to navigation from low water in the pools of the Kentucky river, and had the dams been continuous to the Three Forks, Louisville and Cincinnati, and all intermediate points could have been supplied with scarcely any interruption from low water in the Ohio. So that if an estimate be made of the consumption of coal within these limits alone during the four months of scarcity the increased amount paid for coal over that which would have been available would more than pay for the proposed improvement. It is estimated that it will require the construction of dams to complete this system, at an outside cost of $2,350,000. If the daily consumption of coal at Louisville be placed at 70,000 of New Albany and Jeffersonville at 30,000 bushels, Madison and points between Louisville and Cincinnati at 25,000, and Cincinnati and environs at 125,000 bushels, while of points along and near the Kentucky river at 25,000, we shall have a total daily consumption of 270,000 bushels. Estimating the extreme low price of coal for this period at eight cents per bushel more than that paid under normal conditions, we have a daily loss of $11,600, or a total for 120 days of $1,392,000, which would build the dikes and dams and leave an excess of a quarter of a million. Or in other words, had a proper foresight led the large population thus heavily taxed to have secured from the General Government this expenditure so small in proportion to the millions annually contributed by the large internal revenue States interested, there would have been a saving of this sum to the consumers of fuel. The climatic causes which obstruct the navigation of the Ohio by alternate freezing and drought are said by scientists to be sure to lead to the recurrence of this experience in the future, and it is the part of wisdom to guard against similar calamity. There is no hope of making the Ohio navigable all the year or of having the coal mines of Pennsylvania or West Virginia accessible by water navigation uninterrupted, but here we are presented a feasible scheme by which cheap fuel can always be made available.

We, therefore, in pursuance of the trust confided to us, and in furtherance of a scheme which has had the endorsement of the best engineering skill both of the State and Federal Government invite the co-operation of your intelligent body, and of similar bodies of other cities interested in the object aimed at, to secure Federal Government action by the appropriation as will lead to the speediest practical completion of the navigation of the Kentucky river. What our action may take is, of course, submitted to your own consideration, but we respectfully suggest that it be such as will enlist your representatives in Congress in the zealous support of the measure and that you also appoint one or more representatives of your honorably constituted city to represent the city in the action of the Federal representatives of other bodies at such time and place as may be agreed upon in order to adopt the best plan of action deemed necessary to compass the desired end.

In conclusion we beg to submit with this several pamphlets and documents bearing upon the question, which the limits of this communication forbid us to notice more in detail. Very respectfully,

STODDARD JOHNSON, Chairman, A. G. O'CONNOR, W. Z. BAUM, G. F. BERRY, GEO. A. LEWIS, D. W. LINDSEY, WM. LINDSEY, Committee.

Spencer Booker.

Our community was recently shocked to learn of the death of this worthy citizen and upright man on the night of the 6th inst. after a short and painful illness. He was widely known and universally respected, and the sorrow at his untimely death is sincere and widespread. He leaves a wife and eight children—three sons and five daughters—to all of whom he was a faithful provider, a kind and gentle husband and father. Words can not describe the grief and sorrow of his bereaved family nor the loss of a man whose life was a constant assurance that it will be a blessing to the widow and a father to the fatherless. He enjoyed the favor and regard of all he ever served by reason of his reliability, his honesty, his conscientiousness and his faithfulness. It will be many a year 'till one is found who can fill the peculiarly useful place he so long occupied. It seems a loss for one so greatly respected to be cut down in the very prime of life, but in his humble soul to the great Disposer of all events which Spencer Booker served and cared to serve and to whose divine comfort and care his stricken family is now committed in the confident assurance that it will be a blessing to the widow and a father to the fatherless. * * *

JOHN W. PAYNE,

After a Lingerin Illness, Died at Noon Yesterday.

Death has claimed a valuable citizen and good man has gone to his reward. An announcement about noon yesterday that Mr. John W. Payne had passed away was afterwards verified and communicated to his friends, who, despite the hopeless condition of the deceased and the expectancy for several days past that his death would occur at any time, received the sad intelligence as a painful blow. Mr. Payne's health had been failing for a number of years past, but it was about two years ago that he became alarmed over his condition and earnestly turned his attention to his restoration. He sought the advice of the most eminent physicians here and in Louisville and Cincinnati and twice bore painful and dangerous operations by the surgeon's knife. For a while it was thought he might recover, but relapses set in and his long weakened constitution at last fell under the strain and obliged him to go to bed a number of months back, from which he never rallied long enough to revive hope with his friends.

In many particulars the deceased was a remarkable man. As a mere boy, by force of circumstances, he became the head of his family, consisting of his mother, two sisters and two brothers, for whose support, besides his own, it became necessary that he should leave his home in this county and come to the city to find employment. He engaged to learn the trade of a printer at the Yeoman office, and no man impressed with a heavy responsibility resting upon him ever performed his work more faithfully or diligently in his efforts to master it and become an earner of sufficient wages to provide for those who were dependent upon him. While some would show carelessness or waste their leisure time, and hard earned money in superfluities or in self indulgence, Mr. Payne would be found prompt and attentive to his duties, remaining long after hours in earnest efforts to improve his efficiency, and never failing to carry home to his mother every last cent of his wages, which he knew was even then too small to answer the needs of a large and dependent family. The proprietors of the Yeoman observing his commendable qualities, soon promoted him to foreman of the newspaper department, which he held until 1875, when he was made assistant proof-reader, a position requiring a man of considerable ability and experience, which marks the rapid growth of the country lad in the school of his trade from which he was deriving his education.

About this time the close application to his employment impaired his health, and he went into the insurance business with his brother, George L. Payne.

In 1877 he was elected city treasurer, and served two years, and two years ago made the race for city council from the first ward, was elected, but resigned after serving a year, on account of ill health. He also made the race for county clerk against the present clerk, Mr. N. B. Smith, and was defeated for the nomination by a very close vote. Since the law was passed in 1884 establishing the State Board of Equalization, he has been elected a clerk of the board, and in the performance of his duties evidenced an ability in the difficult and laborious work of preparing and tabling of figures, that invariably called forth the praise of his associates and the gentlemen constituting the board. For a number of years past, until a year ago, when his health was permanently impaired, and during the time he was a Secretary of the State Board referred to, he was employed as the special collaborator of tables in the office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, both under Prof. J. D. Pickett and Capt. Ed. Porter Thompson.

In 1873 he married Miss Sallie Gresham, of Georgia, who with six children, Miss Georgia, Emma and Florence, Stoddard, Lydia and baby Sallie survive him. Miss Georgia is a teacher in the public school, a graduate of the high school and a young lady of splendid character and attainments. In 1874 Mr. Payne joined the Methodist Church, of this city, and has ever been an earnest worker in the cause of Christ, in whom he placed his most implicit faith as the savior of mankind. He was superintendent of the Sunday-school for years and a member of the official board of the Church. Besides his own family, his aged mother, two brothers, George L. and Charles G. Payne, of this city, and sister, Mrs. George Farmer, of the county, are left to mourn his loss. The deceased was a member of the Masonic order, a Past Master of Hiram Lodge, of this city, and while the members of the lodge will attend his funeral they will not assume the charge of the ceremony. The body will be buried from the Methodist Church this afternoon at three o'clock. Rev. H. G. Henderson preaching the sermon.

The deceased was forty-five years of age, a man of warm, generous impulses, lofty character, and strong prejudices against what he conceived to be wrong in reason or principle, and a friend in his sympathy and advocacy of all who were struggling against the adversities and ills of this life. In his death the city has lost a good citizen, whose weight of example and moral character will bear down in the scales many others who were more fortunate from a pecuniary point of view and made greater display of public spirit and enterprise.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

The New Members Sworn in and Organized the Board.

Seven of the nine new members of the City Council assembled at the council chamber Tuesday night and were duly sworn into office by the City Clerk, Chas. G. Payne.

There was a large crowd of on-lookers interested in the distribution of the official emblems. The names of the seven members are:

First Ward—C. C. Furr, Jacob Swigert.

Second Ward—Chas. L. Ellwanger, John E. Miles.

Third Ward—B. C. Milam, H. H. Watson, R. K. McClure.

Mr. John Brislan and Mr. George Reock failed to qualify as members of the board, the former by reason of an appointment as trustee of the jury fund, which makes him ineligible for both offices, and the latter because he was not an owner of real estate, as the city charter requires.

Councilman Furr was made chairman pro tem, and an election was then held to fill the vacancy in the board occasioned by the failure of Mr. Brislan to qualify.

Mr. M. P. Gray was unanimously chosen, and his election received an applause from the body.

The election of a member in the place of Mr. Reock was postponed.

The election of a President was then declared in order, and Mr. C. C. Furr and Mr. Ben Milam were nominated and on the first and second ballots each received four votes. Mr. Furr's name, by his request, was withdrawn and Capt. Milam was declared unanimously the President of the board.

The race for the clerkship, the best office within the gift of the council, next came up.

The candidates were Messrs. Chas. G. Payne, A. B. Hammond, Thos. L. Wiard and T. J. Todd. Mr. Todd won on the first ballot, the voting resulting: Todd 5, Payne 1, Wiard 2.

The treasurer's race was a more exciting contest, three ballots being necessary to a choice.

The candidates were Messrs. W. P. Hudson, sr., Frank W. Keys, A. H. McClure and Capt. Ed. Drane. The ballots stood:

First ballot—Hudson 1, Keys 2, McClure 3, Drane 2.

Second ballot—Hudson 0, Keys 3, McClure 3, Drane 2.

Third ballot—Hudson 0, Keys 2, McClure 5, Drane 1.

Mr. McClure was thereupon declared the treasurer.

The election of an assessor, clerk, bridge and work-house keeper was postponed. Mr. Watson introduced a resolution that the tax books remain in the hands of the treasurer until February 3, and that the treasurer be authorized to receive and receipt for all taxes without penalty. It was adopted.

Mr. Furr proposed for nomination the following police and fire commissioners, who were accepted by the council:

S. R. Smith, George A. Lewis, J. B. Hendrick, D. W. Lindsey, J. L. Waggoner, J. M. Todd and J. W. Milam.

From this list the Mayor will select the board. Marshal B. B. Jeffers was sworn into office and filed his bond, with A. G. Jeffers, John C. Noel and S. J. Salyers as security, which was approved.

The council adjourned to meet next Tuesday night, when the President will have his standing committee and the Mayor his selection of the police and fire commissioners ready for announcement.

Mr. William T. Price, a Justice of the Peace, at Richland, Nebraska, was confined to his bed last winter with a severe attack of lumbago; but a thorough application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm enabled him to get up and go to work. Mr. Price says: "The remedy cannot be recommended too highly." Let any one troubled with rheumatism, neuralgia or lame back give it a trial and they will be one of the same opinion. 50 cent bottles for sale by J. W. Gayle, drugist.

MR. CARLISLE

Will Resign and the Vacancy in the Senate Will Be Sought After by Many.

It appears now that Hon. John G. Carlisle will accept the place of Secretary of the Treasury in the Cabinet of President Cleveland, and that his resignation as Senator from Kentucky will soon be filed with the Governor.

Of course, the question of who will be his successor has set all the political wheabouts going. The candidates are said to be numerous, nearly a great many named for each of the Congressional districts. While many will doubtless obtain a few votes merely as a compliment from their district Representatives, there is hardly any doubt that the race will narrow down to such formidable candidates as Governor Brown, Judge William Lindsay, Gov. McCreary, Gov. S. B. Buckner, if he should run, or Gov. J. Proctor Knott, Hon. Cassius M. Clay, Jr., and Hon. William J. Stone.

Who will get it is a difficult matter to determine, but the belief prevails among the knowing ones that Judge Lindsay's chances are better than all. This would be according honor to a citizen of Frankfort whose ability as a lawyer is acknowledged among the greatest at the bar, and whose reputation as a jurist has a standing in the country the equal of the most eminent. It is probable that Frankfort, therefore, will appreciate the situation and unite in the endeavor to secure this high tribute for one of her most distinguished citizens.

GENERAL.

World's Fair Appropriation—The house on Tuesday, by a vote of 52 to 41, passed the Carroll bill appropriating $100,000 for Kentucky display at the World's Fair.

CINCINNATI ICE GORGE—The breaking of the ice gorge Friday and Sunday at Cincinnati occasioned an immense loss of coal, estimated at not less than $325,000. The towboat George Matheson was also crushed and sunk. The price of coal in consequence of the loss was advanced one dollar a ton.

LOTTERY CASES—The arguments in the lottery cases before the Court of Appeals were made on Tuesday by Commonwealth's Attorney Frank Parsons, of Louisville, and Major D. W. Sanders for the lotteries, and on Wednesday by Attorney General Hendrick for the State, and Senator John G. Carlisle for the lotteries. The cases were submitted.

LOUISVILLE'S BANK EMBEZZLER—Friday of last week it was supposed that Wm. H. Pope, the absconding bank teller of the Louisville City National Bank, had been caught at Starke, Florida, but Mr. James A. Leech, the Vice President of the bank, who made the trip there to identify him, failed on Sunday to do it, and ordered the release of the unknown captive.

River vs. Rail.

The Louisville Post of Thursday contained the following editorial pertinent to the question of coal and the speedy completion of the Kentucky river improvement, which is now receiving the attention of the citizens:

Years ago the city of Louisville voted railroad taxes upon itself in order that it might always have cheap coal and not be dependent upon the uncertain river. Yet when the river freezes the price of Kentucky coal advances to a ruinous figure. It is easily demonstrated that the railroad can bring coal here and sell it at 8 cents per bushel and still make a fair profit, but when river commerce ceases the price is quickly increased, and we can confidently expect that Louisville will gain by giving millions to these coal roads.
